

---

Open Research Data and Open Science

---

Elena Giglia

Open Science in practice: new collaborative tools

This brief talk is aimed at giving an overview on recent trends in scholarly communication with the common target of opening up science: journals with new content and functions, fair publishing, new collaborative writing tools, text and data mining issues, the preprint shift in disciplines other than physics, open peer review experiment, and the retraction storm.