
Open Research Data and Open Science

Elena Giglia

Elena Giglia is Head of the Open Access Office at the University of Turin. She is a member of the “Open Access working group” at CRUI (Conference of Italian Universities Rectors) and of AISA, Italian Association for Open Science. She participates in national and international conferences, and writes and lectures on Open Access and Open Research Data. She took part as Italian expert in several EU Workshops on Open Access and Open Data. Her working area covers also research assessment issues: she is a member of the “Research Evaluation” technical committee at the University of Turin. She was a member of the “Open Access and Evaluation” working group at ANVUR (National Agency for Research Evaluation) in 2013-2014. She serves in the Editorial Board of “JLIS - Italian Journal of Library and Information Science” and in the Scientific Committee of Open Edition Italia.
