

Open Research Data and Open Science

Marialaura Vignocchi is Head of AlmaDL, the Digital Library project of the University of Bologna. Her main interests are in Digital Libraries, scholarly communication and Open Access. She is a member of the national Working Group on Open Access within the Library Commission of CRUI (Conference of the Rectors of the Italian Universities). She has participated in national and international conferences and published articles on Open Access, IRs, scholarly communication, IP and copyright issues, DL services.

Milena Garofalo is a lawyer with expertise in intellectual property rights. She has been in charge of legal services for the Research and Technology Transfer Offices at University of Bologna since 2009. In 2015 she joined the Documentary and Departmental Support Division, focusing on copyright matters and open access.

Roberta Lauriola is part of the staff of AlmaDL, the Bologna University's Digital Library which stores and makes available digital collections online to support teaching and research. She assists and supports the users in the use of AlmaDL services, in particular teachers and researchers in the dissemination of their contributions in Open Access.

Irene Frascari is a biotechnologist and a bioinformatician. In 2015 she joined the staff of AlmaDL, the Bologna University's Digital Library, to assist and support the UNIBO research groups to satisfy the requirements of the Horizon 2020's Open Research Data Pilot, focusing mainly on the development of the Data Management Plans.