Open Access journals and Universities: a world without APCs is possible

The presentation focuses on University of Milan Open Journal Systems (OJS) platform “Riviste UniMi” (<https://riviste.unimi.it>) and its 10 years history (2008-2018).

It will be discussed the business model, the results achieved in terms of dissemination and popularity of the journals and some critical issues, with the conclusion that a scientific communication system without APC is definitely possible.
